Stellar's new Reserve Range released

Stellar Winery, the world's first Fairtrade accredited organic wine producer and South Africa's largest organic wine producer, recently expanded its range to include two new wines – their first Reserve wines to be released.

The fruit for the recently released Stellar Organics Sauvignon Blanc Reserve 2006 was specially selected, handpicked and treated separately once in the cellar. The nose is redolent of green peppercorns and dusty veld roads. Demonstrating a smooth entry on to the palate and a good balance between the typical green flavours of a cool climate Sauvignon and the gorgeous tropical notes of the ripe fruit, this is a wine with great mouthfeel. Complexity and depth of flavour characterise this classy number.

Also available is the Stellar Organics Chardonnay Reserve 2006. This wine has a rich nose of strawberries, pineapples and bananas, while the palate is complex with prominent layers of vanilla and banana. Well integrated and perfectly balanced this delectable Chardonnay has a rich silky texture and an engaging fruity entry, which develops into a spicy, dry finish.

"The Chardonnay Reserve 2006 was made from equal portions of press juice and free-run. The wine was made in a serious style, with judicious wooding adding a complexity and spiciness to the finished product," explains Stellar Winery winemaker Dudley Wilson. Both wines are priced at R37,62 incl. VAT ex cellar.

This innovative cellar, situated 275 km north of Cape Town in the semi-arid Namaqualand region, has won numerous awards both locally and overseas for wines of superior quality and distinction. Stellar is on the forefront of international trends and is committed to promoting social responsibility and environmental sustainability within the wine industry.
